

CALIFORNIA LABOR HISTORY

a fall semester class at CITY COLLEGE OF SAN FRANCISCO

labor donated

- How did economic inequality grow to today's extremes?
- Are the recent public education strikes in West Virginia, Kentucky, Colorado, Arizona, and Oklahoma new phenomena? Did anything like this ever happen in California? In San Francisco?
- What was the relationship between organized labor and the civil rights movement? The feminist movement? Occupy Wall Street? Black Lives Matter? The Fight for Fifteen?
- The hidden history of unions and working people is all about these issues. Learn where your rights came from, and what those struggles have to do with the challenges our society faces now.

"Taking the class was a great introduction to labor history in California. It's given me a better understanding and appreciation of AFT 2121's achievements over the last 30+ years."

—Jessica Buchsbaum, Secretary, AFT 2121

WHAT: CA Labor History, LBCS 88
WHEN: Tuesdays, 6:10 pm, Fall semester, beginning August 21
WHERE: Mission Campus, CCSF, 1125 Valencia

ENROLL: www.ccsf.edu

PREREQUISITES: NONE

Instructor Fred Glass was the long-time communications director for the California Federation of Teachers, and wrote From Mission to Microchip: A History of the California Labor Movement (UC Press, 2016). He directed the award-winning video series Golden Lands, Working Hands.

FOR MORE INFO: contact the Labor and Community Studies Dept., wshields@ccsf.edu, or call 510-579-3343

City College is tuition-free!

3 units college credit, transferable to CSU and UC